RE: Suzann Gille

To Whom it May Concern,

My name is Greg Moss and I am the publisher and editor of Beaufort-by-the-Sea Magazine, a small town magazine for the residents of downtown Beaufort, North Carolina. Our magazine goes out to approximately 2,500 recipients in our beautiful coastal town.

We had the pleasure of working with Suzann, who approached me hoping to secure an internship, and served as my Media Assistant. Suzann did an absolutely phenomenal job for us in her capacity as photographer, writer, graphic designer, and creative team member. She had not originally planned on wearing that many hats, however, as her time with us progressed, she took on more and more responsibility and excelled at every challenge put before her.

Her photography skills are what brought her to us, and she surpassed every expectation. During her internship she used her skills in many arenas, including photographing homes, pets, children, and wildlife. She also did a fantastic job at numerous events, including wine tastings, store openings, parades, and fireworks shows. Her talent truly shows in the fantastic photos we used throughout the magazine, but on our covers as well.

We utilized her graphic design skills creating ads for the magazine and she also created new or redesigned logos for some of our local businesses that are using her work in every aspect of their business today. Suzann became a huge creative asset for me to lean on as we discussed upcoming projects and events, and her input was both insightful and extremely positive.

When I asked if she would be interested in writing articles, she jumped at the opportunity and wrote features on the local Maritime Museum and a spotlight on a local carpet cleaning and upholstery business that has actually let that business to receive numerous new customers solely from her article. Suzann writes with a very genuine and unique voice that really paints a picture of the story she is aiming to tell and I received great feedback from our readers that her features were refreshing and insightful.

All in all, Suzann was a delight to work with, and I would be happy to endorse her for any opportunity. I hope she comes back to our town as I would put her to work again in a heartbeat. If you need any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Greg Moss
